What type of programs can nominated student apply?

1. Special Auditing Students (with credits)

(Classroom study only)

*The notice of course registration will be sent to the exchange students directly via email around late September (for October admission) or late March (for April admission). Due to KU regulations, undergraduate students cannot take classes for Graduate students. In addition, exchange students can only take classes in Schools/ Graduate Schools with which they have an agreement.

*By Japanese law, exchange students on a student visa, who will mostly audit classes must have over 10 hours (600 minutes) of taught class sessions every week (7 class sessions per week).

2. Special Research Students (NO CREDITS)

(Nominated students join a research lab in the Graduate School and do research)

*You are required to contact with your prospective supervisors and discuss the details of your research. You MUST reach an agreement for your acceptance in advance, and provide us this information when applying. (Application Form: Sec. 11)

In case you plan to do research activities in the lab, please consult with Kyushu University through the home university with the name of your prospective supervisor at KU. In principle, exchange students cannot conduct research activities in a lab without prior approval.

*Please select the program you want to apply for very carefully, as you cannot change the program after we issue the Certificate of Acceptance.

What kind of documents do nominated students need to provide?

1. Application form
2. Enrollment certificate issued by the home university
3. Official academic transcript issued by the home university
4. Letter of recommendation written by the academic advisor of the home university (With a handwritten signature is preferable.)
5. Photocopy of passport
6. (Only for Research Student) Any documents that proves your acceptance from the prospective supervisor at KU
7. Documents which show your language ability

*Application Form: Sec 11)

*Exchange students enrolled at Kyushu university as a “Special Research Student” may conduct their own research under the instruction of a research supervisor without taking any credits courses given at the Graduate School of Science, Graduate School of Systems Life Sciences, or Graduate School of Mathematics.

USEFUL INFORMATION FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

After Arriving in JAPAN

Orientation for new international students

International student exchange division holds orientation session twice a year (usually at the beginning of April and at the end of September) for new international students. These are very important opportunities to learn about the campus facilities, traffic rules and the Japanese residency system. Kyushu university international student center offers Japanese language classes for exchange students. They will make an announcement when the date is approaching.

Check out useful information and important things for international students of Kyushu university living in Fukuoka. We also feature guidance videos created by Q-Mate, a student support team composed of Kyushu university students, so feel free to check them out.

We also introduce guidebooks and websites that provide a wide range of information about daily life in Japan.
